

Showa Denko HD Singapore Pte Ltd

Development Engineer - Lubricant

(Normal Shift, 8.30am to 5.30pm)

JOB DUTIES & RESPONSIBILITIES

- Participate in the preparation of samples for customers' qualification
- Supervise and lead a team of Engineering Assistant and Technicians
- Design new processes to achieve parameters in order to meet customers' requirement
- Perform detailed tests to achieve customers' qualification
- Undertake development projects to develop new processes for future technological requirement
- Ensure smooth transfer of processes to the manufacturing team
- Undertake improvement project to resolve technical problems encountered during manufacturing
- Develop evaluation techniques to closely simulate drive performance
- Any other ad-hoc duties as assigned by superior.

JOB SPECIFICATIONS

Qualification

- Degree in Chemical Engineering / Material Science / Material Engineering (Mechanical / Chemistry)

Experience

- Candidates seeking experience and / or
- Candidates with prior relevant experience in the manufacturing environment will have an added advantage.

Skills Required

- Good communication and analytical skills. Proficiency in English is a must.
- Proficient in Microsoft Office applications
- Understanding of Carbon and Lubricant technology will be an advantage

Others

- A good team player and able to work independently.
- Good interpersonal skills, detailed and well organized.